Introduction

Hello and welcome to the second in the series of the Five Minute Brain Workout, a brain training book based on word games and puzzles.

Taking care of your brain can be equally as useful as taking care of your body. By simply using five minutes at a time to stimulate and challenge your brain on a regular basis, it can help keep your mind sharp and flexible.

Doing short, varied mental activities and challenging your brain with new tasks can help improve your memory, concentration, problem-solving skills, processing speed, creativity, logic and reasoning.

To this end I have included many new and interesting puzzles to help keep your brain active and stimulated, along with some of the same types of puzzles from the first book (The 5 Minute Brain Workout), to provide a feeling of familiarity.

We learn more if three factors are present: if we are doing something we enjoy; if there is repetition; if there is variety. For these reasons the book uses a games and puzzles theme aimed at people who enjoy words and language; there are ten examples of the same kind of game or puzzle; and there is a wide variety of types.

By doing both games and puzzles it will give you the discipline that comes with finding the 'correct' answer required for puzzles, along with the creativity of a range of acceptable answers that a game provides.

You have enough for twelve months' worth of working your brain, so let's get started ...

How the book is laid out

Games & Puzzles

There are 365 exercises—enough for one a day—comprising 37 different types of word games and puzzles, spaced evenly throughout the book. 36 types have ten exercises, while the 37th has five exercises.

Levels

There are ten levels, generally increasing in difficulty as you go through the book. This means that the tenth exercise will usually be harder than the ones preceding it.

The difference between a game and a puzzle

Generally speaking a puzzle has a specific answer, like a Word Sudoku, whereas a game doesn't, and may have a number of suitable answers. For example "Find as many words as you can in a minute that rhyme with the word 'light.'" Approximately two thirds of the exercises are puzzles, while the rest are games.

Variety

There is a wide variety of types of exercises (37 to be exact) specifically devised to make your brain work in different ways and keep it alert.

Bonus

Try the three bonus puzzles at the end. They are a taster from the next book!

Answers

You will find the answers at the back of the book. The puzzles have specific answers, while the games have examples of acceptable answers.

How to use this book

First of all, feel free to use the book in any way you like, there is no right or wrong way to use it.

A suggested way is to start at the beginning and work through all the Level 1 games and puzzles, doing one a day through the levels until you reach Level 10. Or you may like to choose one type of game or puzzle and work through all ten levels, before going back to a new puzzle and doing the same.

As many of the exercises will be new to you, it's a good idea to take time to read the instructions so that you can use the 5 minutes well.

The games and puzzles will probably take you different amounts of time. Some may not take the full 5 minutes, while some are more involved and may take you slightly longer.

While the puzzles have specific answers, the games don't, which means you can continue developing your creativity by doing them more than once and getting different answers.

If you are not sure how to tackle a game or puzzle, look at the answer and work out how it is done, then you'll know how to do the next one.

As well as a way to exercise your brain, the games and puzzles can be used to challenge yourself, or simply to have fun, or you can bring in a competitive element by using a timer or doing them with others.

The exercises can be used in many settings, for example at home; in work; in social settings; in educational settings such as schools; as icebreakers and energizers in training sessions, and in therapy settings.

‘June said that’

One day in July, June went to meet her friends Jane, Jude and Juno. June had said that it was good to meet with people in July, though Jane said that June was a better month. Juno said that June or July were both suitable. June said what she thought, and said that June wasn't a suitable month, while Jane said to herself 'Did June say that July was better just because Juno said that June was suitable?' June said to Juno that Jane said whatever came into her head, but Juno said that Jane said that she always thought out her answers before speaking. Jude said that June or July were never suitable and just because Juno said that they were, didn't make it so. June and Jude said that just because Jane and Juno were happy to meet in June, that didn't make it the most suitable option. "July is the better month" June said, "that is, without doubt, when we should meet." Juno said that she was happy; Jane said that she wasn't and Jude said that she didn't care and was going home.

For example the sentence SHE LIKES CATS would fit into the structure CCV CVCVC CVCC. Proper nouns are allowed, and you can put punctuation anywhere in the sentence if you would like to.

WORKING IT OUT 10

Work out what these phrases have in common.

Tea for two please.

I see you there.

Male knights allowed here.

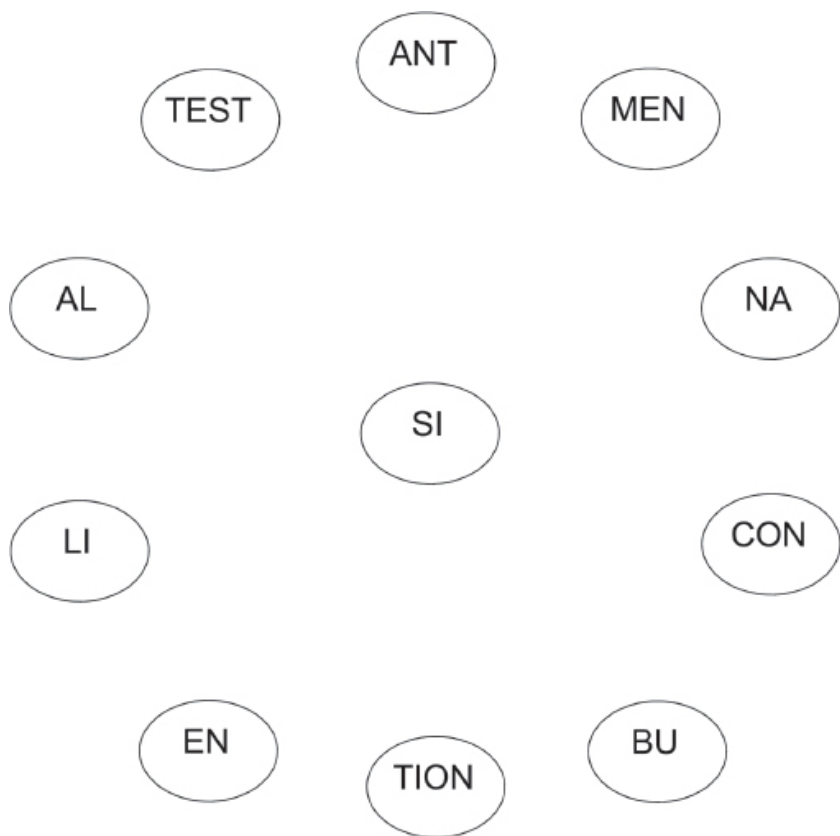

We'll buy horse meat.

Find key, ring bell.

SYLLABLE WORDS 10

The words to find each have 3 syllables. The last syllable or section of one word forms the first syllable or section of the next, for example WONDERFUL and FULFILLING.

Starting in the centre, draw a continuous line from one word to the next. There are five words to find.

POETRY 10

Make up a limerick.

A limerick is a humorous poem consisting of a stanza of five lines, where the first, second and fifth lines rhyme with each other, and the third and fourth lines also rhyme with each other. Often the first line introduces a person or a location, which is placed at the end to establish the rhyme scheme for the second and fifth lines.

This time there are no lines given, and your task is to make up a limerick that includes all the letters of the alphabet. The letters are given below so you can cross them off as you use them.

A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

THREE LETTERS 10

How many words can you think of that contain the three given letters in this order? They do not need to be together in the word, can occur anywhere, but need to be in this order. For example if the letters were ITE, the words could be ITEm; bITE, InnovaTE, sIsTEr, and so on.

Aim to avoid proper nouns.

You have two options here. You can spend one minute on each set of three letters, or you can choose one set of letters and spend five minutes on it.
